Dear Student,

For your information, I serve as the CEO and CFO of an Entity named Medical Information Simulations, devoted to innovation in the areas of education training simulators for laboratory and medical students, in which I am the co-founder and creator, along with Koy Kubala, which serves as our research and innovation as faculty members in the School of Health Professions at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center. This company relationship has been identified as having the potential to create a conflict of interest with my responsibilities as a faculty member. I have fully disclosed these interests to the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, and I have in place an approved plan for managing any potential conflicts arising from this involvement. To manage this financial (potential) conflict, it is my responsibility to ensure that an independent review of my work is conducted annually.

I understand that your work on the project, Medical Information Simulations LIS Training Simulator, should be for academic reasons to further your studies and your professional career endeavors. If at any time you have any concerns about whether your work is inappropriately focused toward my outside relationship(s), or that your ability to publish has been impeded in any way, I encourage you to contact Roland Faller, PhD (Dean of the Edward E. Whitacre College of Engineering) at engineeringdean.coe@ttu.edu or the Associate Vice President for Research (Integrity) at ResearchIntegrity@ttu.edu.

Please sign and return one copy of this letter to Dr. Tommy Dang prior to participating on the MIS project.
